

Whatever the application, Draka has a high quality cable to meet your needs. There's a complete range of house wiring and low voltage supply cables for domestic and commercial installations. Plus you can trust our market-leading "Firetuf" branded range of OHLS fire performance cables to set the standard for fire alarm, emergency lighting, CCTV and data transmission circuits.

All the cables you'll ever need

Draka cables meet and often exceed British Standards and are fully BASEC approved. This means you can install them, safe in the knowledge that you are specifying the best cables available. What's more, you can rely on Draka's experienced team to support you with technical advice on product installation and new legislation issues. The extensive cable range from Draka - all the cables you'll ever need.
